Acknowledgements

The Commercial Art Technology students and alumni at Broward Correctional Institution, Fort Lauderdale, Florida were honored to participate in the creation of this resource guide. It gave us an opportunity to design a tangible product with the knowledge and skills we have acquired in the Commercial Art Technology program.

Collaborating with professionals from various agencies, companies and organizations involved with this project was an invaluable learning experience. The layout and design of the cover provided us with a source of spiritual, emotional, and personal growth, in creating something to assist others in becoming productive members of society as they reenter their communities.

Special thanks and gratitude to Ms. Liliane Rique of Greenfrog Advertising, Miami, Florida for her contribution, commitment and continuing support.

South Florida

2017 Reentry Resource Guide

Returning citizens often face enormous challenges that can be overwhelming. The 2017 South Florida Reentry Resource Guide gives returning citizens hope by providing access to services and programs necessary for successful reentry.

The 2017 South Florida Reentry Resource Guide is the latest publication of the Southern District of Florida's Violence Reduction Partnership (VRP). The past editions of the guide have assisted tens of thousands of individuals striving to be productive and crime-free. The guide is especially useful for individuals and organizations that provide reentry services to returning citizens.

The 2017 South Florida Reentry Resource Guide would not have been possible without the support of the U.S. Department of Justice/Bureau of Justice Programs and the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Southern District of Florida led by Acting United States Attorney Benjamin G. Greenberg and his VRP team including Executive Assistant United States Attorney Randy Hummel and Law Enforcement / Community Coordinator James (J.D.) Smith.

Our appreciation is also extended to the more than 70 loyal participating agencies of the South Florida Reentry Task Force who have provided ongoing support for inmates and returning citizens through reentry fairs, Walking One Stops, transitional living centers, and a plethora of quality programs and services throughout South Florida. With the support of the U.S. Attorney's Office and the work of task force members, the South Florida Reentry Task Force has become a nationally recognized award-winning VRP initiative and we invite you to join our efforts.

We welcome your suggestions on how to improve the guide; therefore, please contact me at wayne@waynerawlins.com to share your thoughts. We wish you abundant success on your reentry efforts - you are making South Florida a safer place to live.

Best regards,

Wayne E. Rawlins

PREPARING FOR YOUR RELEASE

While you are in prison...

- Develop your personal strategic plan.
- Participate in education programs - Get your GED.
- Address personal issues through treatment for addictions and mentalhealth counseling.
- Modify (change) your child support order if needed.
- Work toward finding a positive place to live when released.
- Apply for government benefits as soon as you can.
- Keep in touch with family members.
- See if family members can send you clothing for your release (check with your institution).
- Get a Social Security card and birth certificate.
- Develop a résumé - seek assistance if necessary.
- Practice completing applications and job interviewing.
- Work with your case manager to prepare for release.

FIRST STEPS AFTER RELEASE

When you are released, take it one day at a time...

- Contact a reentry program and/or an employment program and make reason for contact clear and precise.
- Show respect and appreciation to all persons contacted for resources.
- Follow through with directions and advice given.
- Stay in a positive living situation.
- Get proper clothing and food.
- Find your way around – know the bus system.
- Get a birth certificate if you don't have one.
- Get a photo ID/driver's license.
- Get your Social Security card if you don't have it.
- Sign up for government benefits.
- Keep in touch with and report to your parole officer as required.
- Take care of health and dental needs.
- Take care of mental health needs.
- Get help for alcohol or other drug abuse.
- Make arrangements for child support.
- Take care of childcare or parenting needs.
- Get more training or education.
- Get civil rights restored.
- Clean up your record and get legal help if needed.
- Clean up your credit and spend money wisely.

BENEFITS OF HIRING A RETURNING CITIZEN

- Employers can benefit financially from the Federal Work Tax-Credit program by hiring a returning citizen.
- Employers can benefit from the Federal Bonding Program which provides them with insurance for hiring a returning citizen.
- In general, returning citizens are employees who are just as reliable as non-returning citizens.
- They follow instructions well and are timely employees.
- Many returning citizens are job ready and have acquired skills while incarcerated. As a result, employers can benefit from their skills.
- If the returning citizen is under community supervision, employers will have a direct point of contact and resource for their company which may assist them with job retention. Additionally, the employer is made aware that their employee (a returning citizen) is drug tested and that he/she must maintain employment as a condition of supervision.
- These aspects, of the returning citizen, may increase work productivity and reliability.
- Once a returning citizen becomes employed; he/she becomes a tax paying citizen and a contributor to the community.
- Statistics reveal that if a returning citizen is employed he/she is less likely to recidivate.
- In short, he/she becomes a productive member of society.
- By employing a returning citizen, the "Employer" becomes part of a solution. The returning citizen is given a second chance, which results in a successful transition into family, culture, community and self.
- Many returning citizens have received training specifically designed to assist and meet the needs for employability and job placement. In turn, employers save time and money for training.

JOB INTERVIEWING TIPS

- Research the company that you are interviewing with
- Prepare your résumé for the specific job you are applying for
- Use a cover letter to sell yourself along with your résumé
- Practice interviewing with friends and family
- If you use Facebook or other social media set your profile to private - nowadays employers check
- Personal appearance is important - wear clean neat professional clothes
- Arrive early to your interview
- Bring extra copies of your résumé and have your references ready if asked
- Relax
- Think positive - be positive!
- Turn off your cellular phone
- Greet employer with a smile and a firm handshake
- Be friendly and courteous - use good manners
- Maintain good eye contact
- Listen carefully to the interviewer's questions and do not talk too much
- Speak clearly and use proper grammar
- Mention your accomplishments and match them to the job you are applying for
- Be prepared to answer typical interview questions (like "What are your strengths?") and questions about your criminal background
- Do not backbite a previous employer
- Ask the right questions
- Request the employer's business card
- Express your appreciation for their time
- End with a firm handshake, eye contact, and a smile
- Mail a note of appreciation two days after your interview

ALCOHOL AND OTHER DRUG ABUSE TREATMENT

If you need help for an alcohol or other drug related problem and do not have insurance or the ability to pay, the phone number listed below can direct you to places that may help. Whether you are in need of an assessment, sober housing, a support group like Alcoholics Anonymous, or a treatment program, there is hope!

Dial 211 - Miami-Dade Community Resource Directory (Operates 24 hours)

To help you understand your options, the following information may be helpful for you or someone you know:

- Agencies that offer treatment provide an assessment as a first step. An assessment involves collecting information from you to help determine if treatment is needed and if so, what type.
- Detox helps remove your body's physical need for alcohol or specific other drugs. This is only needed and available in certain cases. Services are generally offered over a 3 to 7 day period.
- Inpatient or residential treatment programs require that you stay at the treatment center while you are involved in the program. Stays can last 30 days or longer.
- Day treatment programs do not require you to live at the treatment center, but they have a schedule that is similar to an inpatient or residential treatment program. You generally have to attend the program every weekday for a full day.
- Outpatient treatment programs do not require you to live at the treatment center and do not require as much time as day treatment. Services can range from a few hours per week to 3 hours per day, 3 days a week, for several weeks.
- Counseling is generally offered on a one-to-one basis. Counseling services usually have a specific focus and sessions are scheduled at mutually convenient times.
- Relapse prevention programs offer structured support (generally 1-2 hours per week) for people who have completed treatment and want additional help to maintain an alcohol and drug free lifestyle.
